'GOING DUTCH' . . .

The problem of old cars abandoned on streets or piling up on junk yards or salvage yards has been studied by the Dutch Dutch.

Reuters notes the Dutch government has introduced legislation imposing a deposit equivalent to $80 on every new car sold.

Reuters says:
"Under the new system, the buyer of a new car will have to pay $80 above the normal sale price. When the car is resold, the new buyer has to refund the money to the original owner and so it goes on down the line until the car is scrapped. Whoever owns it then gets the money back from the state."

If Cameron and other communities have such a problem, and Cameron does, perhaps a special fund could be enacted whereby the junk cars scattered from here to California and back to New York City could be eliminated.

The Dutch cities are littered with abandoned vehicles which have to be towed away for scrap by local authorities, says Reuters.

A lot of scrap vehicles ought to be hauled off of highway right-of-way, city side streets and generally off the nation's horizons.

The Dutch say a note accompanying the legislation stresses the last owner of a car will only be able to recover the money if he can prove the car has been properly disposed of.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Cameron is doing much on elimination of old buildings and ugly vacant lots. So why not work on this problem before the accumulation of an automotive society further damages the appearance of highway approaches to Cameron.

Maybe it would pay in this case to "go Dutch."

Reroute Announced For Chief

HEARNE

Rerouting of a Chicago to Houston "Texas Chief" passenger train was announced last week by an Amtrak official. The train will be diverted from its present route through McGregor and Temple to one that goes through Corsicana, Hearne and Bryan. How soon this rerouting will take place depends on how long it takes to make improvements to the Southern Pacific Railway track between Dallas and Houston.

MARC Center Doing Well

ROCKDALE

The Milam Association for Retarded Children's new "Opportunity Center" is exactly what the name implies — a center where the retarded and severely handicapped have an opportunity for recreation, fellowship and training. MARC was organized in Milam County in 1965. Besides the center, the group sponsors a summer recreational program which provides sports, swimming, camping and play therapy, sponsors a Boy Scout troop for retarded boys with 17 members, sends children to summer camp, and provides a milk fund for underprivileged special education children in school.

Robbery Suspect Arrested

CALDWELL

The arrest of a suspect connected with the robbery of the First State Bank in Deannville on September 19 highlighted a busy week for the Burleson County sheriff's department. Charles Slezack was arrested in connection with the robbery of the bank. No charges have been filed against Slezack. The sheriff's department also has a hold warrant on another suspect connected with the robbery.

New Industry Building

GEORGETOWN

The foundation is poured and the building is in order as work goes on in temporary quarters at one of Georgetown's newest industries, Century Industries, Inc., is fabricating portable concrete batching machines in the old oil mill on 17th street while new quarters are being erected in the Georgetown Industrial Park near Sencor. The product is a portable machine that gathers all the ingredients that go into concrete in measured amounts and dumps them into those big ready-mix cement trucks for delivery to a construction site.

Soldiers To Help In Cleanup

KILLEEN

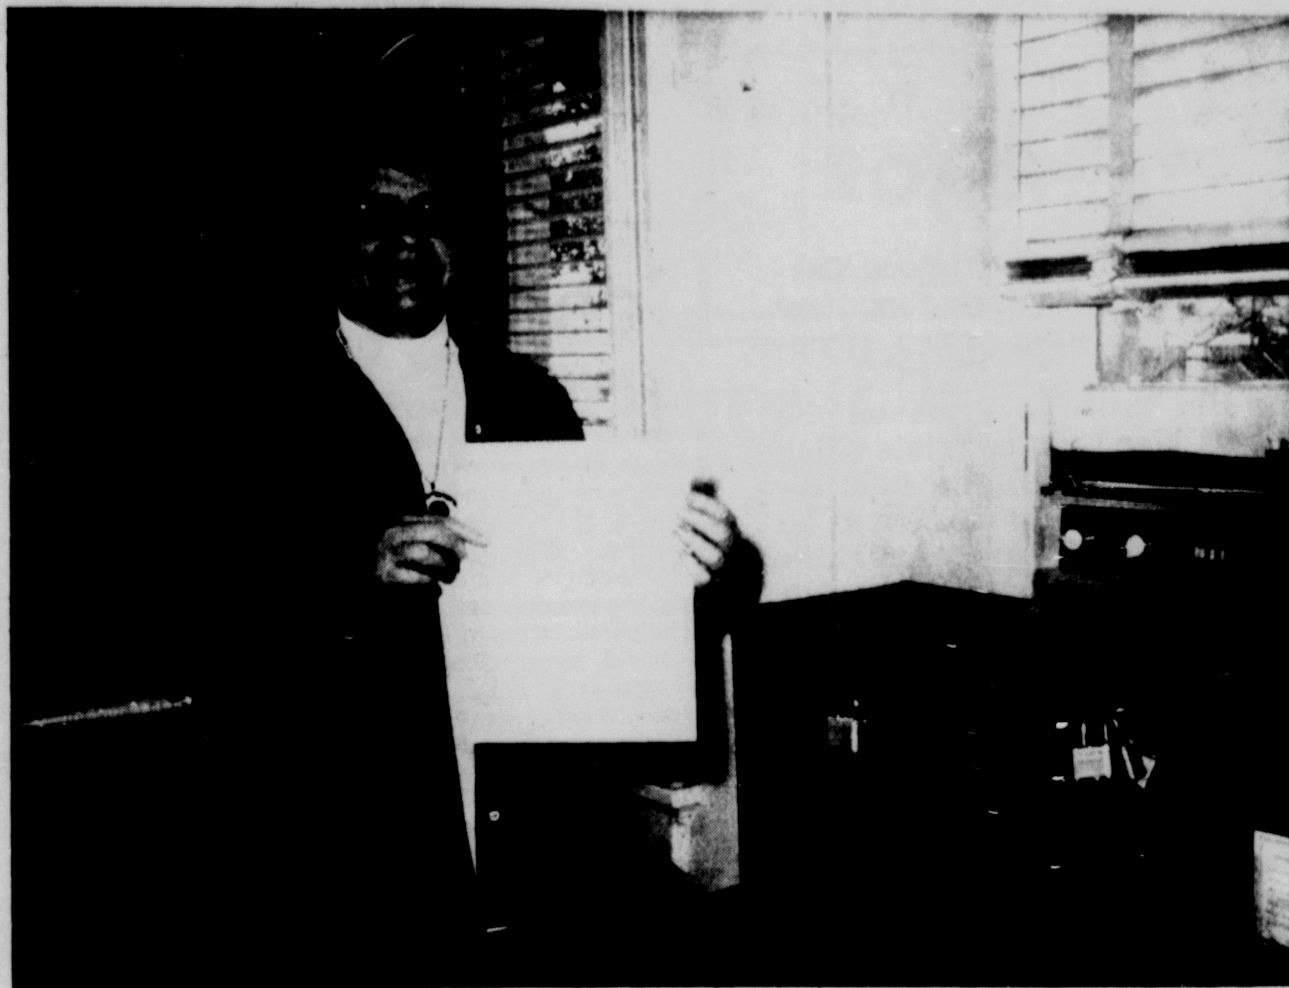

Approximately 12,000 Fort Hood soldiers from the 1st Cavalry and 2nd Armored Divisions and the 13th Support Brigade will help cleanup areas of Killeen, Copperas Cove and Harker Heights November 19. In a project labeled "Operation Helping Hand," the three cities will join with the soldiers in cleaning up unsightly areas and helping residents get rid of excess trash around their homes. The main areas to be cleaned will be the drainage ditches and creeks. Also, all trash which residents bring to the curb will be picked up.

New Hospital Sought

GATESVILLE

A request for a certificate of need for a new 53-bed county hospital in Gatesville has cleared the Central Texas Council of Governments and has been forwarded to the Governor's Office of Comprehensive Health Planning in Austin. State approval of the proposed new hospital is necessary before the project can get off the ground. Initial findings of a survey being made by Hospital Development Corporation indicated the need for the new 53-bed hospital. The present hospital, built in 1942, has 44 beds but the structure doesn't meet today's Life Safety Code Standards.

Woman Killed By Freight Train

A Thorndale woman was killed early Friday morning by a train as she was walking along the track. The accident occurred at 4:14 a.m. and was investigated by Highway Patrolman Milton Wright.

She was identified later in the morning as Mrs. Maisie Yakesch, 64, of 201 E. Salty, Thorndale. At the time of her death she was not carrying any identification.

The engineer of the train, P. A. Thompson, said the woman was walking east down the middle of the tracks and moved to the south side of the tracks when the train approached, but not far enough to avoid being struck by the train.

Funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Phillips and Luckey Funeral Home Chapel in Rockdale, with burial in the Lilac Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Emil Yakesch of Thorndale; one son Thomas Yakesch of Taylor; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Jean Brian of Copeland; a brother, Dennis Todd of Rockdale; two sisters, Mrs. Albert Yakesch of Rockdale and Mrs. William Kolbe of Houston; and five grandchildren.

Historical Marker Due Old Maysfield Church

An Official Texas Historical Marker for the First Presbyterian Church of Maysfield will be erected on November 18 it was announced by Miss Mary Belle Batte of Rockdale, chairman of the Milam County Historical Survey Committee.

The ceremony will be held at the church at 2 p.m. The church is 100 years old.

The marker will be placed on U. S. 190, in Maysfield. Dedication plans will be announced soon.

Made of cast aluminum with Swedish steel effect, the marker measures 18 by 28 inches and is sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Maysfield. The inscription on the marker reads:

"Organized in 1873 by the Rev. Levi Tenney (1823-1907), with nine members. One of two original ruling elders was early settler T. N. Mayes (1812-1891), donor of town-site of Maysfield, which was named for him. The congregation erected this building, its first, in 1883; it was dedicated in 1884 by Dr. S. A.

King of Waco. The first resident pastor (1886) was the Rev. J.K. P. Newton (1843-1898).

"This church has furnished three ministers to Arkansas, Georgia, and Texas presbyteries: the Rev. Henry M. Bailey, Dr. C. Edgar Newton, and the Rev. James W. Newton."

The marking of local historic sites and landmarks is part of the Texas Historical Commission's program of preservation activities. These include archeological investigations, small museum consultation, and administering the National Historic Preservation Act in Texas. As of 1970 the Historical Commission had erected more than 5,000 official markers.

The name and location of the present marker will appear in the next edition of the "Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers" in order to stimulate tourist travel in this area, to arouse interest in historical tours, and to acquaint the people of this locale with their unique heritage.

Swiss Author Believes In Ancient Astronauts

By Bruce Russel

LOS ANGELES

Swiss author Erich Von Daniken is not just a conventional spotter of flying saucers. He sees them flying through the sky and landing on the surface of the earth -- not today -- but thousands of years ago.

Von Daniken's theories about visits to the earth by ancient astronauts continued in his books "Chariots of the Gods" and "Gods from Outer Space" has turned into the latest publishing phenomenon in the United States.

Already widely read in Europe and South America, Von Daniken's books caught on here after a television program about him called "In Search of Ancient Astronauts."

The books have now sold a total of 20 million in the world of which six million were sold in recent months in the U. S.

Bitterly attacked by many scientists, and also by theologians of-fended by his theory that the human notion of gods might be based on these visits by spacemen, Von Daniken was given a limited amount of support for his theory here by one of the few men who has actually travelled in space.

Former astronaut Buzz Aldrin, with Neil Armstrong the first to walk on the moon, said:

"I find that theory much more plausible than the stories of flying saucers hovering around the earth now."

"When you consider the tremendous age of the earth it is much more likely that other astronauts could have visited us way back in time."

Apart from one unidentified object Aldrin's crew saw on their Apollo 11 flight in 1969 -- later thought to be a panel from one of the upper stages of the rocket -- Aldrin saw no strange objects in space on his historic trip.

In fact he says the heavy mechanical and scientific program he and his fellow crewmen had to perform on the trip gave little time for mystical speculation about the strange voyage they were making.

They were so preoccupied with landing procedures on their approach to the moon that not until the moon mountain tops appeared in their spaceship window did they have time to look out and study the scene beneath them.

Aldrin has also joined the ranks of authors with the story of his life and moon journey called "Return to Earth."

The book concentrates heavily on the strain instant celebrity placed on Aldrin and how it nearly wrecked his marriage and b ought him close to a nervous breakdown.

Aldrin has no patience with "UFO" (Unidentified Flying Object) enthusiasts who criticize government scientists for refusing to confirm the sightings of flying saucers.

"There are people who say there's a government conspiracy to cover up the existence of flying saucers," Aldrin says. "That's a lot of hogwash."

Von Daniken too does not believe there is any evidence of spaceships from other planets visiting the earth in recent years.

"Unidentified flying objects may exist but there is no evidence that they are spaceships," he says. "UFOs yes, but if someone told me those are visitors from outer space I'm an unbeliever."

"I've never seen a UFO myself."

Aldrin thinks future space travelers will have much more time to search for the unexplainable and ponder the mysteries of space -- particularly on voyages like the trip to Mars which will take 1,000 days compared with the 2-1/2 days he took getting to the moon.

He said only briefly during the trajectory between earth and the moon did he feel something "akin to bore-

Milam County voters will go to the polls Tuesday to decide on nine proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Polling places for all county voters remain the same as a year ago. Voters in Precinct 2 in Cameron will vote at the Assembly of God Church on North Houston Street.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 provides for annual regular sessions of the legislature and also increases the annual salary of a legislator from the present $4,800 to $15,000. The per diem allowance is increased from $12 to $18.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 expands the homestead protection laws to include single persons whose real property qualifies as a homestead property, and provides that a family homestead may not be abandoned except with the consent of both spouses. This amendment, if passed, would be of great benefit to older single adults.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 extends to single persons the same $3,000 ad valorem tax exemption on homesteads which married persons currently receive on their homesteads.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 requires a small amount of advance notice to be given on legislation to create conservation and reclamation districts.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 permits tax levies to be made by a simple majority vote rather than a 2/3 majority, of resident property taxpayers for the construction of sea walls and breakwaters in counties along the Texas Gulf Coast.

AMENDMENT NO. 6, if passed, would eliminate the dual jurisdiction of county and district courts in probate matters. The intent of this amendment is to streamline the judicial process.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 would provide an additional $100 million in bonds for the Veterans Land Fund, and would increase the maximum interest rate on loans from the fund from 4 1/2 percent to 6 percent. Proceeds from these bonds would be used for loans for veterans who wish to buy 10 or more acres of land.

AMENDMENT NO. 8 authorizes cities, towns and villages to levy such ad valorem taxes as are needed to pay the principal and interest on their general obligations, with limitations on the amount of such general obligations.

AMENDMENT NO. 9 authorizes the legislature to exempt non-profit water supply corporations and cooperatives from the property tax on property owned by the corporation or cooperative which is reasonably necessary for, and used in, the acquisition, storage, transportation, sale and distribution of water.

I found myself trying to think what needed to be done and there was nothing to be done," he said.

Aldrin says the space traveller has a choice of views -- he can either look out towards the dark side with its brilliant stars or on the fierce glare coming from the sunward side.

"You have a tendency not to want to look at the sun when you don't have the atmosphere to protect your eyes. Even with the visor down you don't see the ball shape of the sun but only general glare."

"Anyone who goes along on that Mars trip should take along a few books," he says. "I don't know that I would have volunteered for the trip like that."

PTA To Meet Tuesday

Cameron PTA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Ben Milam School for a program on alcohol abuse presented by Services for Problem Drinking Drivers, a program of Bell County Mental Health and Mental Retardation in Temple. A film depicting alcohol abuse will be shown, with a discussion and question and answer period to follow.

Where Power Is Coveted...

Texan Leon Jaworski, former president of American Bar Association and chief prosecutor of Nazi war crimes tribunal, is a successor to Archibald Cox.

In Congress' current mood, he may not be the Watergate prosecutor, but the first one, a second perhaps named independent of the White House.

Jaworski, 68, of Houston, seeks to find how far things went before Cox was fired by President Nixon before taking things from there.

The tapes, seven of them where once nine were thought to exist, are in the hands of the Courts. Mr. Jaworski's job will be to carry the investigation of a 36-lawyer staff into Watergate, the coverup and related incredible events.

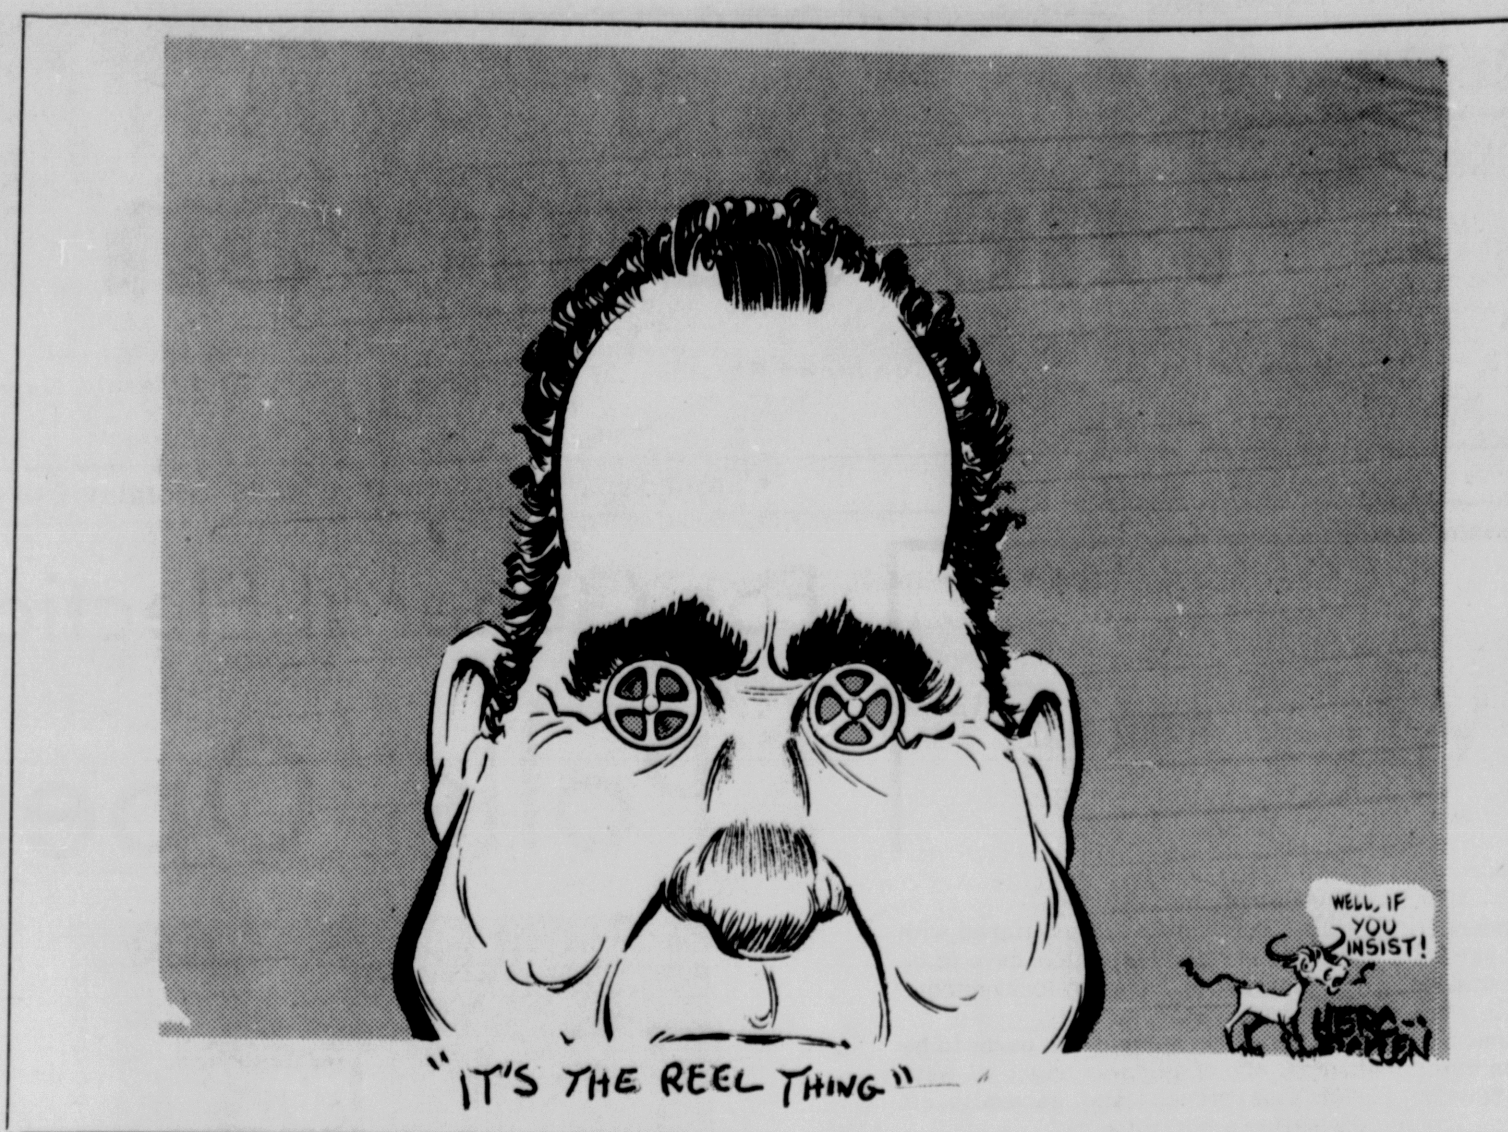

Jaworski has headed an education strike force to improve Texas public education and has served on the Constitution Revision Commission among many prestigious Texas roles. He is a Democrat close to Texas power structure.

He wrote a book on the Nazi War Crimes trials which catapulted him into international legal circles. And he wrote of the moral deterioration in Germany with the rise of Nazi leadership until the values of a great European country collapsed around Hitler's bunker.

His views will find challenge in the inordinate complexity of Watergate, irate press and Constitutional legal questions which cause one of his successors as ABA president to call for impeachment inquiries.

A lawyer's lawyer has found a challenge we hope he can keep: Can we sort out the grievances roused where absolute power is coveted, and sometime necessary, among a free people?

Licenses Sought For Acupuncture

By Siho Lee

SEOUL
Reuter -- The worldwide upsurge of interest in acupuncture requires the establishment of an international licensing system, according to delegates at a meeting of world acupuncturists here.

The participants of the third world congress of acupuncture were concerned that national systems of licensing acupuncturists would cause confusing as the oriental medical art spread rapidly to western countries.

An American acupuncturist told the congress that an international examination system is urgently needed to overcome this confusing as "thousands of doctors and hundreds of thousands of patients are turning to acupuncture as the means of eliminating pains in the human body."

Dr. Richard Yennie, who learned acupuncture in Japan and has trained 1,200 western doctors in acupuncture, said: "Many people who don't know it think it is a black magic, and those who know it think it is proveable science."

"In the United States, it is legal in some states, illegal in some others and extra-legal in the rest of the country," he said at a roundtable discussion during the three-day meeting.

A state license is generally required for practicing acupuncture in East Asia.

In Britain, graduates of the college of Chinese Acupuncture in Warwickshire, who had passed the school examination and obtained an approval by a state screening board can practice acupuncture, according to Professor J. R. Worsley, president of the college.

In the United States, Nevada is the only state recognizing Chinese medicine as separate from orthodox western medicine and granting a license to oriental medical doctors, including acupuncturists.

Neil Galatz, president of the Nevada state board for licensing oriental medical doctors set up last May, said his job was to "distinguish quacks from genuine acupuncturists."

But the statute is very vague and still needs to spell out the requirements for becoming an oriental medical doctor, Galatz said.

He said he expects more states to follow the example of Nevada.

The congress drew 700 people from 26 countries, including 117 from the United States, 90 from Japan, 39 from Taiwan, 21 from Argentina.

Banana Peels And The Law

So many people are injured by stepping on banana peels and other slippery substances that lawyers talk about "slip-and-fall" as a separate branch of law. And special rules are invoked to determine questions of legal liability. Take a typical case:

A housewife, shopping at the market, skidded on a banana peel, fell, and sustained a broken arm. When she filed suit for damages, the management argued that the peel had probably been dropped by a careless customer—not by an employee of the market.

But the woman pointed out that the peel had been lying in plain sight of four checkout clerks—and that two other employees had walked right past it shortly before her accident. This was poor maintenance, said the court, upholding the woman's claim.

Generally speaking, the management of a store is liable for a slip-and-fall accident if it knew—or should have known—about the hazardous condition. This may call for a kind of detective work in figuring out how long the slippery material had been lying on the floor.

For example, liability in one case was based largely on the fact that the ice cream on which a man slipped had pretty much melted; in another, that a lettuce leaf was "old, dirty, and mashed" when stepped on; in another, that a fallen piece of candy had heel marks in it.

These telltale clues helped to prove that the object had been on the floor long enough to have been observed and cleared away, if store employees had been on their toes.

On the other hand, the management may be able to pin a negligence label on the victim.

The court said there was simply no way to discover who had dropped the pencil or how long it had lain there. Placing blame on market employees, said the court, would be a "mere guess."

Vertical Society...

Congressman Poage says it is cheaper to rebuild smaller towns and rural areas than revitalize cities.

This is no doubt true. But how do we convince the majority of 80 per cent living on about 2 percent of the continental U.S.?

He suggested this at a Rural Development Conference put on by Governor Dolph Briscoe, who continues efforts to revitalize vast areas of Texas which are underdeveloped or now grossly neglected.

The reason is, of course, that only 2 million people live in those parts of Texas.

We might do what California and other West Coast states and Hawaii have begun, and that is, in effect, put up "visiting only" signs in the most populous or popular parts of Texas or the nation.

Maybe if we stay around the home area a decade, rural development will be a viable, as well as wise movement away from a vertical society.

Alligators Under Gun After Staging Comeback

By Charles Ward

TALLAHASSEE
Reuter -- After more than a decade of protection from hunters and poachers, alligators are again under the gun.

In the swamps and waterways of the southeastern United States the alligator has been staging a dramatic comeback from the brink of extinction -- so dramatic that there are growing pressures to legalize alligator hunting again despite the reptile's official status as an endangered species.

Louisiana, where state officials say the alligator has become an unwelcome predatory enemy of fur-bearing animals, opened its second consecutive alligator hunting season last month. Hunters will be permitted to take up to 6,000 hides, an increase over last year's season which drew protests from conservationists and the U. S. Department of the Interior.

Florida, where the alligator has been seen as a symbol of successful wildlife protection, also is considering an open season designed primarily to eliminate "gators" from populated areas.

Urbanization of the state's wetlands has increased contact between people and the alligators and the state game commission reports that the death of a girl in Sarasota -- officially blamed on a 10-foot alligator -- has touched off a flurry of hate mail against the reptiles.

Georgia, the last state to outlaw alligator hunting, has refused to reopen its season but game management officials say the pressures from hunters and the hide industry has been intense.

Conservationists admit that the alligator's rapid recovery throughout the south may eventually demand some kind of legal "harvesting" but fear the wave of hunting interest could start the reptiles back on the way to extinction.

"We're very apprehensive about it," said Charles Callison, executive director of the National Audubon Society.

ty. "It was not long ago that the alligator was in very bad shape, and it really has recovered only in isolated pockets. It's just too early to take it off the list of endangered species," he added.

Federal wildlife officials have another concern. After years of efforts to stamp out the illicit trade in alligator hides, they fear the introduction of legal hides would revive the demand for alligator shoes, belts and handbags.

During last year's season in Louisiana, federal officials said, the going rate for the coveted underbelly of an adult alligator was $55.93. At that rate, federal agents estimated a good poacher could make $400 to $500 for a night's activity in the swamps.

Louisiana officials estimate that from critically low levels in the 1960s, the alligator population in that state has risen to 250,000 by last year.

Teachers Form New Political Arm

Texas teachers have formed a new statewide political action arm to work for improvements in public education.

The Texas Educators Political Action Council (TEPAC), an independent, arm of the 157,000 member Texas State Teachers Association, was officially organized in Austin recently by a majority of the TSTI executive committee acting as individuals.

TSTA Pres. Johnny Clark said the Council is comparable to those formed by the Texas Medical Association and other profession groups.

HERALD CLASSIFIEDS SELL

We want you to know...

Nationwide, there is concern about the energy crisis.

In many sections of the country, people are experiencing, firsthand, the effects of shortages of energy-producing fuels: gasoline, oil and natural gas.

Texas Power & Light Company produces electric energy with generating plants which use natural gas or coal as fuel, with some oil-burning capability.

TP&L has the generating plants, the transmission and distribution lines and all the other facilities necessary to produce and supply all the electric energy its customers need. And, just as we have done for more than 60 years, we're building the facilities necessary to meet anticipated future needs.

But, we must have the fuels to produce the electric energy.

As TP&L customers use more electric energy, TP&L generating plants must use more fuel to produce the energy. Thus, wasteful use of electric energy automatically means wasteful use of one or more of the basic sources of energy.

Conserve electricity and you help conserve fuel. Conserve fuel and you help assure that there will be enough to produce electricity for essential needs.

Here are some of the ways you can conserve electricity in your home... and, at the same time, reduce your electric bill:

HEATING

1. Have a qualified serviceman check your electric heating system annually.
2. If you have a forced-air heating system, replace or clean filters frequently.
3. Set thermostat at 70-75 degrees and leave at this setting. If you will be away for a day, a weekend or longer, set thermostat at 55-60 degrees.
4. Keep furniture and draperies clear of air outlets and returns.
5. Open outside doors as little as possible. Keep doors and windows properly weather-stripped.
6. If you have a fireplace, keep damper closed when not in use.

KITCHEN & LAUNDRY

1. Defrost refrigerator regularly and replace worn door gaskets.
2. Don't overload refrigerator.
3. When cooking on range, use flat-bottomed utensils which fit surface units. Cover utensils when possible.
4. Allow frozen meats to thaw before cooking. Cook meats and vegetables together, or in separate utensils at the same time in oven.
5. Operate dishwasher, clothes washer and dryer only when fully loaded.
6. Conserve hot water by washing clothes in cold water with cold-water detergents.

OTHER

1. Turn off any inside or outside lighting not actually needed.
2. Turn off television, radio, iron, etc. when you leave them.

TEXAS POWER & LIGHT'S HELPING, TOO

When you pass a TP&L office, warehouse, generating plant or other facility, you'll see that we've turned off all non-essential lighting.

Chinese Embarking On Major Buying Spree

By Jonathan Sharp

PEKING

Reuter -- Over the past year or so China's foreign trade corporations have embarked on a major buying spree, particularly from the west, and the question asked with increasing frequency among businessmen and diplomats here is "How are the Chinese going to pay for it all?"

Traditionally China has been conservative in its trading policies, keeping imports and exports neatly in balance year by year and preferring to deal in hard cash rather than venture into long-term credit arrangements. It is a point of national pride that China has not been in debt to anyone for many years and accepts no foreign aid.

Partly as a result of this cautious approach, China's foreign trade, estimated at just over five billion dollars last year has always been small for a country of over 700 million people -- one quarter of mankind.

But the picture has begun to change. China is now splashing out on a broad range of imports, not only foodstuffs and basic commodities but also large quantities of industrial goods.

The United States, Britain and France are selling jet airliners to the Chinese, Japan and West Europe are supplying machine tools, heavy machinery such as mining equipment and dockyard installations, electronic and advanced technology goods, and even complete industrial plants.

But the biggest trading sensation this year has undoubtedly been the meteoric rise of China's trade with the United States.

Two years ago total Sino-American trade was less than five million dollars. This year in the wake of the political detente between the two countries, the U. S. is expected to sell at least 500 million dollars worth of goods here.

The new Chinese appetite for expensive western hardware has puzzled some foreign observers here, who see the trend as contradicting the well-worn Chinese slogans stressing the virtues of "self-reliance."

Whatever the explanation, it is clear that China is now seeking a rapid technological "Leap forward" to boost what is still predominantly rural-based economy and has opted for a large-scale injection of foreign expertise to help achieve this.

Strategic considerations may well have spurred this policy. Recent Chinese statements have indicated that Peking still lives in fear of an attack from the Soviet Union and Chinese leaders may have been convinced that a rapid expansion of the country's industrial capacity is necessary to counter this threat despite the high cost.

What is not clear is whether the massive rise in imports means the Chinese have decided to scrap the balanced trade policy, at least temporarily, and run up a trade deficit.

Chinese exports are rising this year, but by how much is not yet known.

Observers point out most of the increase has been in terms of value, not volume. This year the Chinese have sharply raised the prices of their export goods -- a move which came as an unpleasant shock to many foreign businessmen at the last Chinese trade fair at Canton.

Most observers believe that while the expedient of raising prices may have worked once for the Chinese, it could hardly do so again as too many buyers would be frightened off by a further price hike.

On the other hand, it is doubtful if China can expand the volume of its exports at a rapid rate, since the country just does not have the necessary productive capacity at present.

Medical Associations Are Urging Vaccinations

Get vaccinated!

Does this sound like something you've heard before? Many, many times? Well, you have. And you will hear it again and again.

Especially will you hear it again this fall, with renewed emphasis. Both the Texas Medical Association and American Medical Association are pushing immunizations against disease with renewed vigor.

Despite all the combined efforts of TMA, AMA, public health officials, school leaders, voluntary health agencies and other, there still are countless thousands of Texans facing unnecessary risk of disease, crippling and even death -- simply because they have procrastinated about immunizations for themselves and their families.

Targets for this fall are polio, rubella, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Immunization levels against polio have declined to a dangerous low, making a renewal of the epidemics of the 1940s and 1950s possible.

There are still cases of tetanus, or lockjaw, every year. Almost every one is unnecessary. Tetanus toxoid offers excellent protection. Diphtheria is still dangerous and by no means wiped out, despite the fact that a vaccine has been available for years. Whooping cough is so common in childhood that most parents don't consider it serious. But whooping cough can be dangerous. It can be prevented by vaccination.

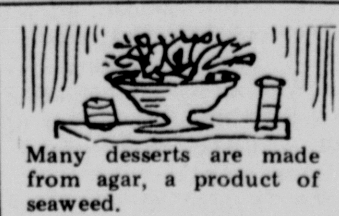

Vaccines against measles -- both the rubella and rubeola types -- are available. Immunization of school children, particularly girls, and of pre-school children is recommended, along with women of child-bearing age (who are not pregnant) who missed vaccination in childhood.

Smallpox vaccination no longer is recommended for everyone. The disease has been eradicated in the United States. Smallpox inoculations now are urged only for a few select groups, such as hospital and medical personnel and travelers to areas of the world where the disease still threatens.

The TMA has adopted a formal policy statement encouraging county medical societies to support campaigns for physicians to review the immunization status of their patients and increase the immunization level of children.

Your doctor and public health clinics are ready to protect you and your family with vaccination. They can do so only if you and your family go get your shots.

Baylor Sets Annual Art Exhibition

WACO
It doesn't matter if it's animal, vegetable or mineral so long as it's not more than six feet in any direction, or so rules for the 1973 Waco Regional Art Exhibition say.

For the first time since the annual exhibition began at Baylor University five years ago, sculpture entries will be accepted. Any artist living within a 75-mile radius of Waco may submit entries Monday through Friday (Nov. 5 through 10). All work must be delivered uncrated to Room 114 of the Baylor art department in the Carroll Science Building on the Waco campus. Entries will be accepted from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday. Shipped work cannot be accepted.

The exhibition is set for Nov. 18 through Dec. 5 in the Baylor Art Gallery.

New Books For City Public Library

The following are new books now available for loan at the Cameron Public Library:

Worlds Apart by Ilka Chase - Once again Ilka Chase takes you on a travel adventure to far-away places—some well known and some worlds apart.

Steppenwolf by Herman Hesse - Creator of elegant narratives that transform the inner wars of personality into heroic struggles against unexamined life, Hesse speaks the soul language of the young.

Narcissus and Goldmund by Herman Hesse - In a medieval setting Narcissus and Goldmund tells the story of two men whose characters are diametrically opposite.

Rosshalde by Herman Hesse - The story of a world-famous painter and the process of self-discovery that ultimately permits him to break loose and seek an authentic life in India.

A Life by Wright Morris A deceptively simple portrait of the last hours of an old man's life.

All Creatures Great and Small by James Herriot - The book shines with humor, pathos, superb, tale-telling and, a rarity above all these, what seems a richly justified love of life.

Woman's Mysteries by M. Esther Harding - The author takes as her source material the development of the inner woman as it has been portrayed in myth and the rituals which particularly concern women and their role in human life and culture.

The Moon's a Balloon by David Niven - The extraordinary life and the extraordinary friends of David, who has been in turn an athlete, a soldier, a bootlegger, an organizer of indoor pony races, and, through a stroke of almost incredible fortune, a Hollywood star, come through with the enormous style, wit and originality of the man himself.

The Mallen Girl by Catherine Cookson - The second of the Mallen trilogy. Barbara is a true Mallen, wilful hot tempered, imperious and alarmingly beautiful.

Upstairs at the White House by J. B. West - This is the anecdotal, intimate memoir of the man who, in his highly important post of Chief Usher was responsible for running the White House for six Presidents and their wives.

Ariel Custer - Brentwood and Out of the Storm by Grace Livingston Hill - Three additions to our Hill collection.

The Bread Winner Is Peach Butter

The Bread Winner Is Peach Butter

Wonderful idea for an early morning eye-opener—golden brown, spicy Peach Butter spread on toast, hot biscuits or pancakes. In fact, Peach Butter, made with Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin is a welcome addition to any meal. It's a winner in every sense of the word—with or without bread!

Peach Butter
4½ cups prepared fruit (about 3½ lb. fully ripe peaches)
5½ cups (2 lb. 6 oz.) granulated sugar
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
1 box (1¼ oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 3½ pounds of peaches. Chop very fine or grind. Bring to a boil and simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Put fruit pulp through sieve. Measure 4½ cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the butter. Measure the sugars and set aside. Add lemon juice and rind, ginger, cinnamon, and cloves to fruit in saucepan. Mix in fruit pectin. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. Immediately add the sugars and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ¼ inch hot paraffin. Makes 8 cups or 10 (6 oz.) glasses.

Note: This butter may set slowly.

Yoemen Clip Eagles Wings

An aggressive Cameron Yoemen team clipped the carelessly flapping wings of the Georgetown Eagles Friday night in an action-packed battle at Yoe Stadium. Cameron's 29 - 7 wing trimming ceremonies began shortly after Georgetown's first quarter 76 yard scoring drive, thus hindering a continued flight of the Eagles.

The Yoe defense led by Paul Vaculin, Ricky Williams and Bruce Zarosky, accounted for eight turnovers by the Eagles. The alert defense pounced on three Georgetown fumbles and stole five interceptions.

The Yoe offense took advantage of the situations and compiled 305 yards rushing and 39 yards passing. Cameron's powerhouse, George Whiteside, captured the leading groundgainer honors with 100 yards on 13 carries.

The Yoemen effort moved their season standing to 6-2-1, and Georgetown's to a 2-7-0.

Georgetown began the scoring on their second possession of the ball. The Eagles drove 76 yards with quarterback Scott Walden keeping around left end for 10 yards, to cap the drive. Mike Merritt kicked the extra point and with 4:36 remaining in the first quarter, Georgetown owned a sudden 7-0 lead.

The Yoemen bounced back as George Whiteside returned the following kick-off 50 yards to the Georgetown 45 yard line. It looked as if Whiteside was going all the way, but Scott Walden, the only man between him and the goal, saved the touchdown. Two plays later, Whiteside was off and running again. This time on a thrilling 36 yard touchdown scamper off right tackle. Gene Kopriva kicked the extra point, and the Yoemen quickly tied the game 7-7.

The Yoemen continued their effort as Yoe linebacker Paul Vaculin intercepted a Walden pass on the Yoe 40 and returned it to the Eagle 39. The drive was completed as Willie Bell sprinted over from the 5. Kopriva again kicked the extra point, to increase the Cameron lead to 14-7.

Following the Yoe kick-off, Cameron looked as if they could put 6 more points on the board before halftime as Vaculin recovered an Eagle fumble on the Eagle 25 yard line. However, the "fumble fever" seemed to be contagious, and the Yoemen fumbled the ball away on the first play from scrimmage. James Jones recovered for Georgetown and the Eagles began a scoring effort with only two minutes remaining in the first half.

Georgetown's effort turned useless plays later as the Yoe defense forced the Eagles to turn the ball over on the Yoe 32. Guided by the running of Jafus White, the Yoemen managed to add three, as Kopriva kicked a 28-yard field goal. With only 6 seconds left, Cameron led 17-7.

Although little time was remaining, the Yoe defense wasn't ready to call it quits. Jafus White ended the first half with an interception on the Yoe 27.

The Yoemen began action in the third quarter, as Jafus White intercepted an Eagle aerial on the Yoe 15, and returned it to the 36. Sparked by the running of Whiteside, David Wilson and Bell, Cameron drove to the Eagle 5. On the following play, the Yoemen relied on Whiteside once again to carry the ball across. Because of the first half injury of Gene Kopriva, the Yoemen tried for the 2-point conversion, but failed. With 1:41 left in the third quarter, the score remained 23-7.

Plays later Ronnie Bennett intercepted another Eagle aerial on the Yoe 33, and returned it to the Eagle 20 yard line. Whiteside scored plays later from the 3 and Zim Morris' extra point kick was blocked. The score remained 29-7.

Cameron received the ball once again as Ricky Kelley intercepted on the Yoe 36. Smitherman's pass to Gary Hornung to the Georgetown 44, seemed useless as Georgetown's Randy Munoz pounced on a Yoe fumble on the following play.

Georgetown beginning at their own 35 drove down to the Yoe 2, but the Eagle threat ended as Mike White recovered a fumble at this point. The recovery crushed all hopes of an Eagle touchdown, and the victorious Yoemen now await their District 12-AAA bout with Belton next Friday night. A win over Belton would throw the zone into a three way tie between Belton, Cameron and Gatesville.

Yoe 7th, 8th See Action Thursday

The Yoe 7th and 8th grade played their final games of the season Thursday night against Georgetown. Although the last, they proved to be, perhaps, the most exciting.

The Yoe 7th grade played their best game of the season, but fell to Georgetown in the last minutes by a 16-14 score.

Georgetown scored first on a 1 yard passing combination of Smith to King.

Following the Georgetown kick-off, the Yoe Yoes, guided by the running of Norman White and Roy Tina, drove down to the Georgetown 3. The Eagle defense stiffened and Georgetown took over at this point.

However, the Yoe Yoe defense led by Hubert Knight, Donald Stanislaw, Ernest Triggins and David Raymond, forced Georgetown to give the ball up on downs on their own 26 yard line. With 18 seconds left in the first half, the Yoe Yoes scored on a 26 yard run by Roy Tina. Norman White ran for the extra points and the score was tied at halftime, 8-8. Cameron scored their next touchdown early in the third quarter as Norman White plunged across from the 3. The extra point failed and the Yoe Yoes led 14-8.

Heartbreak came to the 7th grade Yoe Yoes late in the fourth quarter as Andrews scored from the Yoe 5 yard line. With only 14 seconds left in the game, the Eagles captured the 16-14 victory.

Coach Bob Nance's Yoe 7th grade was robbed of a victory, but the Yoe Yoes displayed an impressive effort.

In 8th grade action, the Yoe Yoes suffered a 26-6 loss to the hands of Georgetown. The Yoe Yoes only touchdown came on a 52 yard run by Mike Knight late in the first quarter.

The Yoe defense was led by Stanley Schigt, Douglas Price and Bobby Burton.

Mike Knight added to the defensive effort with one interception and David Rosemond intercepted two Georgetown passes.

Badgers Might Stuns Oglesby

The powerful and consistent Buckholts Badgers whipped the Oglesby Tigers 54-6 Friday night in Buckholts. The win kept the Badgers district record perfect.

Buckholts' Larry Orsag struck again, scoring on runs of 11, 14, 20 and 68 yards, and throwing four touchdown passes of 1, 4, 12 and 40 yards. Three of the touchdown passes went to Carl Tomasick and the fourth was to Harold Goaf.

Oglesby's only touchdown came during the first period on a 35 yard run by Craig Peveto.

The game was called with three minutes left in the third period, and Buckholts is now 3-0 in district play and has a season record of 6-2.

They drove inside the 10 yard line twice, but were unable to push the ball across.

The only first half touchdown came on a 14 yard scamper by Salado quarterback Pee Wee McLaughlin. Fullback Jesse McLaughlin kicked the extra point and Salado led 8-0.

Salado launched an impressive effort the second half and scored four determining touchdowns. The first was by Jesse McLaughlin on a 15 yard dash, the second by Pee Wee McLaughlin on a 15 yard run and the third and fourth were also by Pee Wee McLaughlin on 4 and 7 yard plunges. The final score was Salado 34, Milano 0.

The Salado victory moves their district record to 2-1, and keeps them in the running for a district 8B title.

Tigers Capture Zone Victory

The Rockdale Tigers clinched the District 12-AAA South Zone championship Friday night by defeating the Taylor Ducks 7-3. The game was almost totally a defensive battle, with the Tigers coming out on top.

Taylor scored first on a 42 yard field goal by tackle Allan Ahrens, with only seven seconds left in the first half.

The score was made possible by a pass interception by Elroy Stoglin and a 20 yard run by fullback Randall Kolinek.

It looked as if Taylors 3-0 lead would hold, until Tiger fullback Parker Peebles plunged over from the one. Quarterback John Backhaus kicked the extra point and with 9:14 remaining in the game, the Tigers moved to a 7-3 lead.

Key plays in the drive were a 30 yard run by halfback James Lightsey, a 19 yard screen pass from Backhaus to Hollins Spence, and a 14 yard run by halfback Henry Beckwith.

During the remaining nine minutes the Tiger defense encouraged by the smell of victory, held the Ducks scoreless.

Taylor received an important break with 1:22 left in the game, as Mark Sobotik recovered a Backhaus fumble. However, Beckhaus redeemed himself on the following play as he intercepted a Randy Randig aerial.

Neither team was consistent on offense all night long and both defenses proved to be powerful. The final score was Rockdale 7, Taylor 3.

Mobile Home Code Accepted By CTCOG

The Executive Committee of the Central Texas Council of Governments, at its October 25 meeting, moved to accept the Mobile Home Model Code guideline.

The code will serve as a planning document for the CTCOG, to establish a uniform guide for mobile housing to assist local units of government throughout the region.

Charles Cass reported on the CTCOG representation at the recent AUSA meeting in Washington, D. C. Cass also attended a meeting, as a member of the National Association of Regional Councils Rural Development Committee.

A report was given on the Lampasas meeting for Predator Control, which was a Texas legislative sub-committee open meeting. Judge Harris attended the meeting to present the report for the CTCOG area of losses of more than $600,000 to coyotes.

ASAP Project Director, William J. McCaffrey, reported approval by the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety of the project's budget, with funds due in the immediate future.

Charles Cass discussed the cutting of reimbursement funds to the CTCOG for administrative and operating costs, and the group passed a motion to attempt to secure payment of these funds from the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety.

Funds have been released and contracts approved for the radio equipment secured by the Criminal Justice Council for law enforcement organizations in the area. Delivery and installation of the equipment is anticipated immediately, according to a report by Lindell Bishop.

Persons interested in these positions should submit applications to the Dallas Area Office, U. S. Civil Service Commission, 1100 Commerce Street, Dallas, Texas 75202.

the story of MONEY

In early China many thousands of years ago the people used models of knives as money. This "knife money" was called "tao" and was 7 inches in length. Later it was reduced in size and finally only the top of the knife with the hole in it was left.

This became round money and was called "cash".

FB States Position On Amendments

Farm Bureau has definite positions on two of the nine proposed amendments to be voted on in the Nov. 6 general election, according to Edwin Lehmann of Buckholts president of the Milam County Farm Bureau.

These are propositions No. 1 and No. 9, the county leader said.

Amendment No. 1 provides for annual regular sessions of the Legislature and provides for an annual salary of $15,000 and a per diem allowance of $18 for members of the legislature.

Farm Bureau policy is against annual regular sessions, Lehmann said. He added that the organization has no policy regarding legislator's salaries.

Amendment No. 9 authorizes the Legislature to exempt certain water supply corporations and cooperatives from the property tax on certain facilities.

Farm Bureau favors this amendment, the County Farm Bureau president said.

Farm Bureau state policy is adopted each year in Texas Farm Bureau annual meetings, the local farm leader said. Voting delegates from counties comprise the House of Delegates which adopt policies. The voting strength of counties is based on number of paid-up members in the county, he added.

Alcoa Reports Income For Third Quarter

Aluminum Company of America, which produces more metal in Texas than any other state, reported $23,235,739, or $1.03 per common share net income for the third quarter of 1973.

This compares with $24,544,309, or $1.10 per common share, in the third quarter of 1972. Sales and operating revenues during the third quarter of 1973 were $546,954,459, compared with $436,702,154 in the third quarter of 1972. Shipments of aluminum products during the quarter were 514,000 tons, compared with 415,000 tons a year earlier.

The first nine months of 1973, Alcoa's net income was $74,579,442 or $3.32 a share, compared with $64,930,472, or $2.90 a share, in 1972. Nine-month sales and operating revenues were $1,584,471,010 in 1973 and $1,302,107,111 in 1972. Shipments during the nine months were 1,504,000 tons in 1973 and 1,223,000 tons in 1972.

John D. Harper, chairman and chief executive officer, said that shipments and revenues during the nine-month period were at record levels, reflecting an all-time high in demand for aluminum. He indicated that the company has informed its customers that it intends to adjust 1974 shipments in line with its ability to meet customer needs.

"Alcoa's net income increased over the 1972 nine-month period, but the return on invested capital is still far below the average for manufacturing industries," Harper said. "This return also is far below that required to attract new capital for the expansion necessary to meet growing customer needs for aluminum."

He said earnings during the period were affected adversely by steeply rising costs, by commitments made at extremely low prices late in 1972 and early 1973, and by the company's inability to raise prices due to price controls.

Harper said Alcoa has been discussing with the cost of living council the company's inability to expand because of inadequate return on investment. He said the company has requested both price relief and decontrol of the aluminum industry.

"The present regulations not only hold us at inordinately low prices, but also give us little opportunity to cover the tremendous increases in costs we have had since 1970."

To help meet its commitments to customers during the third quarter, the company continued on an accelerated schedule of purchases of aluminum ingot from the U.S. government stockpile. A total of 202,000 tons was purchased by the company in the nine-month period, with 147,000 tons received.

TIC Attracting New Industries

We've only just begun is the title of a popular song these days but it could very well describe the Texas Industrial Commission's record in attracting potential industries to the State.

The year ending August 30, 1973 far exceeded expectations in terms of activity and results in registering industry "prospects," according to Pat Williams, the director of the TIC's Prospect Development Division.

Williams made his report recently to the Industrial Commission at its regular quarterly meeting.

For that year, Williams said, 286 prospects registered as a result of the TIC's campaign to win them over for Texas. This compares with only 188 in the previous year.

"Thirty-eight of the TIC identifiable prospects have already located in Texas, as compared to only 15 in the previous year," Williams reported. "Of those 38 prospects, almost half of them (16) deciding to come to our state were prospects which we developed from within our files during that 12-month period."

"This short time span indicates the fast pace at which we've been moving."

Williams said that another 38 prospects visited Texas during the year and that nine of those already have announced their decision to locate plants in the State.

"Not only did the numerical number of prospects go up by more than half (52 per cent) but the overall quality of the prospect also went up," Williams said.

He estimated that a large proportion of those considering Texas represent the top 500 corporations in the United States.

He told the Commission that "continuing efforts to be more responsive to the needs of the individual prospect" gets the most credit for the TIC's success in attracting prospective industry.

"Thus far, there have been no indications of a let-up and, consequently, we are looking forward to an even greater current year," he added.

Williams cited statistics which indicated that the 286 prospects were located now in all 50 American states and at least four foreign countries.

ODD DIET

Tifalmin women and children in New Guinea, barred by strict taboos from many "male" foods rich in protein, supplement their diet with steamed tadpoles, lizards, spiders, and tiny toads, reports the National Geographic Society's new book, "Primitive Worlds."
